

Professional photography and filmmaking to educate and empower communities living alongside urban coyotes.

Urban Coyote Initiative creates exceptional photos and films documenting the stories and science of urban coyotes across North America. We partner with city and state agencies, nonprofit organizations and researchers to craft unique, intimate, and beautiful images and videos. The final result captures the interest and imagination of the public to educate, empower and encourage coexistence with urban wildlife.

A RESOURCE FOR RESEARCHERS AND ORGANIZATIONS

Whether documenting a research project or grant proposal, crafting materials for public safety awareness or education, or supporting community ecology and coexistence discussion, UCI provides the the highest level of professional assets associated with urban coyotes. We are available to hire for original photography and videography for specific projects, or image/video licensing in print or online.

ILLUMINATING THE LIVES OF URBAN COYOTES

Love them or hate them, urban coyotes are here to stay. Thus, helping city residents understand their role in preventing human-coyote conflict is critical to any urban coyote management plan. We focus on science-based awareness of urban coyotes, the role they play in healthy urban ecosystems, and strategies for people to live peacefully alongside this adaptable canid. In the process of our work, we explore the complex relationship humans have with wilderness and wildlife, urban ecology in daily life and in the conservation movement, and the adaptability and resilience of urban species.

OUR TEAM

Our award-winning team has experience in photojournalism, filmmaking, audio recording, science communications, project management, biology, zoology and more. We have extensive experience in working alongside researchers and nonprofits alike. Our shared passion is crafting stories of urban coyotes that encourage people to think, question, and connect with the urban wilderness all around them.

CURRENT WORK

Our current collaborations include working with UW Urban Canid Research Project, Gotham Coyote Project, Portland Urban Coyote Project, Denver Urban Coyote Project and more. We have earned a National Geographic Expeditions Council Grant for our work documenting coyotes in Chicago, Illinois. Our coyote photography has appeared in publications including National Wildlife Magazine, Bay Nature Magazine, Ranger Rick Magazine, Mother Nature Network, Arkansas Wildlife Magazine, Anthropocene Magazine and more.
